Registration

When is registration open for McKinney Little League?

McKinney Little League has two seasons each year. The Spring season runs from March until June and open registration begins in mid-November and lasts until February. The Fall season open registration runs from August to early November and registration begins in June and lasts until early August. Players who are registered during the open period will be guaranteed placement on a team for that season.

Can I register after the open registration period?

Yes, you can. MLLB will have a late registration period until the league is full or our support vendors are required to move on to other commitments. Late registration lasts for 1-2 months. If you register during the late period there is a $20 late fee per player. Depending on when the player is registered, uniform orders may have already been made and the player's uniform will require a subsequent late order. This could mean the player does not have a uniform for their first 1-2 games.

How do I register my child to play?

Once you've created your SI Play account (click Login on website), you can go into your account and select the REGISTER TO PLAY/PARTICIPATE button on your account page. If you haven't logged into the McKinney Little League Baseball since Spring 2017 you will need to create a new account.

How do I determine which division is best for my child?

You can review divisions here. During the registration process the website will display all available options based on the player's league age and will advise which of the options may be the best fit. League age is determined by the child's age as of August 31st of the year. Thus, a child who was born 7/1 has a different league age compared to a child born 9/5. League age can be review here.

When is the registration fee due?

Registration fees are due at the time of registration. Fees can be reviewed here. MLLB does support late registration. If a child is registered during the late registration period there is a $20 late fee. If a child lives outside the official city limits of McKinney the city requires the league to leverage a $10 non-resident fee. This fee is required by the city and the league uses Google Earth geolocation to check an address against the official boundaries of the city.

What is included in my child's registration fee?

Registration fees cover uniforms including a shirt and cap. Fees are also used to cover operational costs including field usage, equipment, trophies, and umpires to name a few items. MLLB is a non-profit and volunteer-based organization including our coaches and Board of Directors.

What equipment will I need to buy?

The league will provide 2-4 helmets, tees (in t-ball divisions), catcher gear (coach pitch and higher), pitching rubber (kid pitch divisions), game and practice balls and a first aid kit for each team. Players should purchase a bat, glove, pants, socks, belt, and cleats (no metal tips). Player may wish to purchase additional items like a personal helmet, catching gear and batting gloves but it is not required. All male players at the catcher position must purchase and wear a protective cup. Parents should not purchase pants, socks or a belt until the manager has advised team colors for the season.

You can also download the form here if need be. We ask when uploading the document during registration that you upload a picture of the completed form to guarantee all information is included in the upload. The medical release is good for the entire calendar year.

How does my child get placed on a team?

Children in T-Ball and Coach Pitch divisions are not subject to a draft. New players will be placed on teams by the league based on geophysical or school proximity to other players. If a new player requests to join a specific team the league will do its best to fulfill the request provided the team has room on its roster. Returning players have the right to return to their teams upon request and have priority over new players to the league.

Children in Modified Kid Pitch or higher may be subject to a draft. Returning players are not subject to the draft and can return to their teams upon request. New teams can join the league and protect up to 8 players before needing to fill open spots with the draft. New players will need to participate in a skills assessment to determine their ability and are then drafted by teams with available roster space.

In a new Spring season, returning players from the previous Spring have priority over returning players from the recent Fall season when requesting placement on a team.

How does a player draft work?

Rules for the draft are outlined in the MLLB Rules document which can be found here.

What is MLLB's refund policy?

First time volunteers will use this form. Returning 2017 volunteers will use this form. There is a link to both forms during the online registration process as well. Once a completed registration is received the league will run a background check. Once a background check comes back satisfactory the volunteer will be approved to be assigned a badge. No adult volunteer can take the field during the season without an approved badge and risks ejection from the game if found to be on the field without an approved badge.

Season

How long is the season?

Teams will be scheduled 12 regular season games over a 10-12 week period. Coach Pitch and higher divisions will also have a post-season that should last 1-2 weeks. In the Spring the league will host a pre-season tournament for Coach Pitch and higher. In the event of a rainout or cancelled game, the league will reschedule the game as best as it can with field and schedule availability.

Teams will have 2-3 weeks before the season to practice. The league will make fields available for additional scrimmage games on a first come, first serve basis.

Is this a competitive league?

Little League is considered a recreational league that fosters a fun and inclusive environment for children interested in the sport of baseball. Coach Pitch and higher divisions are competitive divisions in that scores and standings are tracked but competition will not compromise the league's environment or culture. Select and highly skilled players are welcomed to the league but new players and teams are subject to rules concerning the draft if they join draft applicable divisions.

How long are games?

Length of game depends on the division. T-Ball divisions have 50 minute games. Coach Pitch divisions have 60 minute games. Modified Kid Pitch and Minors have 90 minute games and Majors and Intermediate divisions host 1 hour and 45 minute long games.

The league's schedule is dependent on field access awarded to it by the City of McKinney. There are not static game days for each division but the league can approximate based on trends and history. T-Ball divisions can expect the majority of games to be on Saturdays with an occasional weekday game. Coach Pitch divisions will play the majority of their games on weekdays with a focus on Wednesdays and Fridays, although Beginner Coach Pitch will try to have as many Saturday games as possible. Modified Kid Pitch and older divisions will play on weekdays as fields are available.

What days are used for practices?

Managers pick their practice day and time during the Coaches Meeting prior to every season. Practice slots are assigned based on division seniority and available field allotments from the City of McKinney. If you are a returning team or are forming a team, it is recommended that the manager confirms availability before committing to a specific day or time.

What if I cannot make a game or practice?

Life happens and sometimes you cannot make it. That is OK. We ask all players to keep their manager apprised of their availability for games and practices. To be eligible for All-Stars in the summer, a player must have played in 60% of their games during the Spring season. Parents can communicate availability either directly with the manager or via the SI Play app. Players that miss 2 consecutive games can expect a follow up from their manager to see if they are still active for the season.

What is a pool player?

To prevent forfeits MLLB utilizes pool players to fill in gaps in a game time lineup. A pool player is a player who volunteers to play for another team to help them meet their minimum roster requirements. The league will notify families when a pool player is needed. Pool players always bat last in the lineup and can only play in the outfield. If a pool player is used to backfill a player who said they could not make a game and then the absentee player comes to play the pool player will bat before the absentee player.

For Coach Pitch divisions and older, MLLB requires teams to track and update game scores. The league uses the SI Play platform which will manage standings as game results are turned in. The home team is responsible for keeping the official book of the game while the winning team is required to update the scores after the fact. The league recommends the iScore app if you wish to score games over a mobile device.

If, for whatever reason, there is a forfeit the final score will be 6-0 and the forfeiting team will take a loss. Forfeits do not occur in T-Ball divisions. The league will work to make sure a forfeit does not occur but it requires managers being able to communicate head count needs timely.

Can an umpire eject someone from a game?

Yes. Umpires can eject not only managers and coaches but also players and spectators based on either behavior, actions, or creating an unsafe environment. Ejections can also be due to coaches challenging umpire judgment calls, which are not debatable in any capacity during a game.

What happens if I am ejected from a game?

Ejections are not debatable and the ejected individual is expected to leave the field of play immediately. Parents who are ejected can wait in the parking lot until the end of the game so they can pick up their child. Anyone ejected from a game will be suspended for at least one (1) additional game following the ejection. This suspension is non-negotiable and the ejected individual is not to appear at any MLLB event during the suspension.

What should I do if I feel there is an issue that the league needs to handle?

If you feel there is an issue during the game that needs to be called to the attention of a league authority, you may approach the umpire when appropriate. In the case of managers or coaches, the manager can call time and discuss the issue with the umpire. If you are a spectator you may notify the manager or discuss the issue with the umpire following the game. Additionally, and outside of game environments, any issue should be reported to the board of directors and concerns can be sent to league president Will Lloyd at will_lloyd82@hotmail.com.

When will my child get their uniform?

Does MLLB put names on the back of the uniforms?

McKinney Little League does not put names on the back of uniforms as part of the standard uniform process in 2018. Teams are allowed to add last names to their jerseys and there are a number of embroidery businesses that can do this for you. MLLB's preferred vendor is North Texas Sports and Embroidery located at 308 N. Central Expressway McKinney, TX 75070.
